In the report of Professor T. Rothrock, of the University of Pennsylvania, he says that the present forestry agitation represents one of two things—either a great cause, or a cause. He shows that it is the former by such facts as that in the early history of the whole country from the Alleghenies and the sea, from Nova Scotia to Georgia, it was practically an unbroken forest. No one dreamed of cutting it, and the scarcity of timber could occur when necessity was so dense and so vast.

Salt Rheum.
On Head, Face and Neck—A Child's Sufferings Relieved.
"When my baby was only a few months old, eczema, or salt rheum, appeared on his head and neck. It also came out on his body, but not so severe as on and about his neck. It itched and caused much suffering for five years. We consulted leading physicians but had not seen to get any relief. Then, about a year ago, we secured a bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and the result of a fair trial he is now entirely well, his skin being smooth and fair as can be. We also used Hooch's Ointment and found it excellent as an external application." M. F. Goss, Furniture Dealer, Lowell, Mass., and N. B. H. who had decided to try Hooch's Sarsaparilla do not seem to be inclined to say any more.

Read Before Signing.
Among the pithy sayings of a well-known American philosopher and reader of the following: "Sign no paper without reading it. It is a good thing, therefore, to bear in mind continuously the above quotation, particularly with respect to such legal papers as contracts, promissory notes, etc., many people there are, including good business men, who attach their signatures to papers or documents whose contents may have a serious bearing upon them, and who, without being aware of it, are signing away their property with scarcely a glance at their contents. Carelessness in failing to acquaint themselves with the contents of a paper before signing it has caused irreparable loss to thousands of well-intentioned people. The saloons in Brainerd can now remain open until 3 a. m., which is the latest order from headquarters.

To-morrow is pay day among the railroad men of this city, and the merchants are preparing for a big holiday trade to follow.

A switchman by the name of Evans was killed in the yards at Staples on Monday. The body was sent to Ohio from this city on Tuesday afternoon.

The ladies of the Bethlehem Lutheran church will give a festival and auction on Saturday evening at their church on Seventh street. All are invited.

Mrs. Peter Knudsen, of Brainerd, has been at Fawn Lake a portion of this week, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Houston—Mottley Register.

E. M. Palmer, of East St. Louis, Ill., was in the city over Sunday visiting with his sister, Mrs. J. E. Goodman. The gentleman holds the responsible position of yardmaster for the Mobile & Ohio railroad in that city.

The school board have about perfected arrangements to have our public schools opened immediately after the holidays. The have engaged Mr. Jas. G. Stanley, of this city, for principal, and Miss Annie Kelly, of Aldrich, Miss Gibson and Miss Towers, of Brainerd, as teachers—Staples Change.

The city is still in darkness owing to a misconstruction of orders, by which the wrong wheel was sent from Dayton, Ohio, and the mistake was not discovered until it arrived in Brainerd by express Tuesday morning. The wheel sent weighed 1200 pounds, while the one ordered will weigh but 300. This causes another week's delay, and just at the season of the year when the merchants and tradesmen need the lights most.

News has been received in this city of the death of Charlie Kindred, son of Charles F. and Sarah E. Kindred. The sad event occurred in Philadelphia on the 5th inst., and here where his parents and the bright lad himself are well known, there will be a general feeling of sympathetic sorrow. The internment, which was private, took place last Wednesday in Philadelphia, where Mr. and Mrs. Kindred now live. Deceased was 11 years old.

It is any use to remark that all trains on the trunk lines going west are odd numbers, beginning with No. 1, the fast passenger train out of St. Paul. East bound trains are even numbers. Freight trains follow the same general rule, even numbers go west and odd numbers go east. There is a rule about numbering cars, even numbered being box, odd numbered flat and so on, so that the car reports made by telegraph each day, locate every kind and description of car and its capacity and usefulness—Fargo Argus.

A railroad fireman by the name of Harry Ball, started from Staples some three weeks ago for the Brainerd Sanitarium for treatment, being ill with typhoid fever. He was unattended, and it was supposed by his friends in the former place that he had reached Brainerd in safety, but it now appears that he never came here and no trace of him can be found. His brother, who understood that he was in the city, came to see him, and it was in this way that his absence was discovered. Telegrams were sent to all places where he would likely be, but nothing could be heard of him. It is feared that he got off the train in his delirium between Staples and Brainerd and wandered off into the woods and died.

A Trip Up Country.

The writer visited the Pine river region last week in company with L. U. White, and had the pleasure of viewing the government dam on that stream for the first time. The river is at a very low stage and the gates of the dam are raised, but the gentlemen in charge are looking daily for orders to close them down. Two men are stationed there and their task is far from being an arduous one judging from appearances, their work being to raise and lower the gates as directed by the government engineer, and see that the works are not interfered with. They are furnished with a cozy house which is kept neat and clean. The day we were there was Dec. 10th, and the weather was so fine that the doors were thrown open in mid-summer, something unusual in that latitude. The river is not frozen over and several flocks of Mallard ducks were seen flying over and sporting in the river on the trip. On Thursday a visit was made to the headquarters of the Cross Lake Logging Co., on Cross Lake, which is the starting point of the new logging railroad just completed. The road is of standard gauge and extends some fifteen miles into the heart of a heavily timbered country. There are branches which are laid from the main line in several different places from one to two and a half miles in length, but these are only temporary, and as fast as the timber is exhausted will be taken up and moved further on to do service in a similar capacity in other places. The main line is built as substantial as any railroad, and the opinion is expressed by some that it is intended as a start towards an outlet by rail for that region, and will be extended to some objective point, and it is quite likely that from Cross Lake the line will be run to the Mississippi river in the next year or two, a distance of ten or twelve miles, which would obviate the necessity of hauling the logs through dams and rafting across lakes to reach the main stream. Mr. E. Whitney, the manager of the concern, had just arrived from Minneapolis, and he took considerable interest in explaining the details and giving all the information asked for in regard to the project. The road is now in operation, and while we were there a train of logs, consisting of twenty-four cars, and hauling some 70,000 feet arrived and were unloaded on the landing. The operations have just commenced, and it will take a little time to get things running as the company desire, but it is expected that the operating force will be able to bank two million feet a week, and the road will be operated far into the summer.

While in that vicinity we were entertained by A. T. Kimball, familiarly known as "Cod," at his stopping place on Pelican Creek. Mr. Kimball is very pleasantly located, and is enjoying unbounded prosperity in his business, and although located some twenty-four miles from Brainerd, there are few men who enjoy a wider acquaintance or number more friends than Mr. Kimball and his estimable wife.

Holiday Dances.

The Uniform Rank, E. of P., of this city, will give a social dance at Sipp & Atherton's new hall on Christmas night, and invitations have been issued. Every possible arrangement for a good time has been completed. The Knights will appear in uniform. The Junior Club will give their opening ball on Friday evening, Dec. 27th, at Sipp's new hall. The Hook & Ladder members have been busy during the week disposing of tickets for their ball to be given at the rink on New Year's night. The firemen never want for patronage for their pleasant dances, and nearly everybody in the city responds when the announcement is made. A good time can be depended on.

The roller skating craze is apparently being revived in various parts of the country, and Brainerd is no exception. The rink is opened to the public on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons and evenings.

Reversed the Order.

The case of A. L. Hoffman vs. The Northern Pacific railroad for damages which was decided against the company in the lower court was carried to the supreme court which body has reversed the order with the following comments:

After a "roundtrip" or "excursion" railroad ticket has been used by the holder in going one way over the route, it is good in the hands of a purchaser from the original holder, for the return trip, there being no condition to the contrary. In an action for a threatened expulsion of a passenger from a railway train by the conductor for the alleged invalidity of his ticket, evidence considered as not justifying the conclusion that the conductor acted malevolently. The mere fact that an act may have been wrongful and injurious does not justify exemplary damages, in the absence of actual malice or wanton indifference as to the rights invaded. The fact that the passenger was compelled to borrow money to pay fare illegally exacted is too remote to afford a basis for the assessment of damages. The same is true as to the remarks or comments of other passengers subsequent to the transaction complained of.

The St. Paul Globe of Saturday last says: "Frederick Weyerhaeuser, of Rock Island, Ill., the great lumber king, was in St. Paul yesterday conferring with Hon. R. L. McCormick, of Hayward, Wis., and several other of his local managers. In a few days Mr. Weyerhaeuser will leave for the Pacific coast to spend a short time in gaining a much needed rest. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Weyerhaeuser."

The city is still in darkness owing to a misconstruction of orders, by which the wrong wheel was sent from Dayton, Ohio, and the mistake was not discovered until it arrived in Brainerd by express Tuesday morning. The wheel sent weighed 1200 pounds, while the one ordered will weigh but 300. This causes another weeks delay, and just at the season of the year when the merchants and tradesmen need the lights most.

News has been received in this city of the death of Charlie Kindred, son of Charles F. and Sarah E. Kindred. The sad event occurred in Philadelphia on the 6th inst., and here where his parents and the bright lad himself are well known, there will be a general feeling of sympathetic sorrow. The interment, which was private, took place last Wednesday in Philadelphia, where Mr. and Mrs. Kindred now live. Deceased was 11 years old.

It is any use to remark that all trains on the true lines going west are old numbers, beginning with No. 1, the fast passenger train out of St. Paul. East bound trains are even numbered. Freight trains follow the same general rule, even numbers go west and odd numbers go east. There is a rule about numbering cars, even numbered being box, odd numbered flat and so on, so that the car reports made by telegraph each day, locate every kind and description of car and its capacity and usefulness—Fargo Argus.

A railroad fireman by the name of Harry Ball, started from Staples some three weeks ago for the Brainerd Sanitarium for treatment, being ill with typhoid fever. He was unattended, and it was supposed by his friends in the former place that he had reached Brainerd in safety, but it now appears that he never came here and no trace of him can be found. His brother, who understood that he was in the city ill, came to see him, and it was in this way that his absence was discovered. Telegrams were sent to all places where he would likely be, but nothing could be heard of him. It is feared that he got off the train in his delirium between Staples and Brainerd and wandered off into the woods and died.

A Trip Up Country.

The writer visited the Pine river region last week in company with I. U. White, and had the pleasure of viewing the government dam on that stream for the first time. The river is at a very low stage and the gates of the dam are raised, but the gentlemen in charge are looking daily for orders to close them down. Two men are stationed there and their task is far from being an arduous one judging from appearances, their work being to raise and lower the gates as directed by the government engineer, and see that the works are not interfered with. They are furnished with a cozy house which is kept neat and clean. The day we were there was Dec. 10th, and the weather was so fine that the doors were thrown open as in mid-summer, something unusual in that latitude. The river is not frozen over and several flocks of Mallard ducks were seen flying over and sporting in the river on the trip. On Thursday a visit was made to the headquarters of the Cross Lake Logging Co., on Cross Lake, which is the starting point of the new logging railroad just completed. The road is of standard gauge and extends some fifteen miles into the heart of a heavily timbered country. There are branches which are laid from the main line in several different places from two to two and a half miles in length, but these are only temporary, and as fast as the timber is exhausted will be taken up and moved further on to do service in a similar capacity in other places. The main line is built as substantial as any railroad, and the opinion is expressed by some that it is intended as a sort of a shortcut towards an outlet by rail for that region, and will be extended to some objective point, and it is quite likely that from Cross Lake the line will be run to the Mississippi river in the next year or two, a distance of ten or twelve miles, which would obviate the necessity of hauling the logs through dams and rafting across lakes to reach the main stream. Mr. E. Whitely, the manager of the concern, had just arrived from Minneapolis, and he took considerable interest in explaining the details and giving all the information asked for in regard to the project. The road is now in operation, and while we were there a train of logs, consisting of twenty-four cars, and scaling some 70,000 feet arrived and were unloaded on the landing. The operations have just commenced, and it will take a little time to get things running as the company desire, but it is expected that the operating force will be able to bank two million feet a week, and the road will be operated far into the summer.

While in that vicinity we were entertained by A. T. Kimball, familiarly known as "Doc," at his stopping place on Pelican Creek. Mr. Kimball is very pleasantly located, and is enjoying unbounded prosperity in his business, and although located some twenty-four miles from Brainerd, there are few men who enjoy a wider acquaintance or number more friends than Mr. Kimball and his estimable wife.

The Junior Club will give their opening ball on Friday evening, Dec. 27th, at Shipp's new hall.

The Hook & Ladder members have been busy during the week disposing of tickets for their ball to be given at the rink on New Years night. The firemen never wait for patronage for their pleasant dances, and nearly everybody in the city responds when the announcement is made. A good time can be depended on.

Reversed the Order.

The case of A. L. Hoffman vs. The Northern Pacific railroad for damages which was decided against the company in the lower court was carried to the supreme court which body has reversed the order with the following comments:

After a "roundtrip" or "excursion" railroad ticket has been used by the holder in going one way over the route, it is good in the hands of a purchaser from the original holder, for the return trip, there being no addition to the contrary. In an action for a threatened expulsion of a passenger from a railway train by the conductor, for the alleged invalidity of his ticket, evidence considered as not justifying the conclusion that the conductor acted unreasonably. The mere fact that an act may have been wrongful and injurious does not justify exemplary damages, in the absence of actual malice or wanton interference as to the rights invaded. The fact that the passenger was compelled to borrow money to pay fare illegally exacted is too remote to afford a basis for the assessment of damages. The same is true as to the remarks or comments of other passengers subsequent to the transaction complained of.

The St. Paul Globe of Saturday last says: "Frederick Weyerhaeuser, of Rock Island, Ill., the great lumber king, was in St. Paul yesterday conferring with Hon. R. L. McCormick, of Hayward, Wis., and several other of his local managers. In a few days Mr. Weyerhaeuser will leave for the Pacific coast to spend a short time in gaining a much needed rest. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Weyerhaeuser."
